Subject: Information relevent to seismicity

Hi Jim,
I recall from our call last week that there was information I was supposed to send to you, but I don't recall it's nature. Do you?

In June 2010 I talked with John Power at the USGS Alaska Science Center about what kind of seismic information was available for the area. It seemed that there was not much. Since then I have seen more detailed maps than he suggested were available (such as the one Bob used). If you want to chat with him the number is 907-786-7426. This was before EPA had made the decision to do the assessment. I was collecting information.

TNC in Alaska may also have information that is not generally available. They have been collecting anything related to Bristol Bay for some time. (907-276-3133)

Happy new year.

Phil
